

SABIN AELL | Artist Statement

I love to work with my hands and create visually extravagant objects. I strive for the extraordinary. Through my work I want to touch people's spirit and spark inspiration. Contrasts attract me. I enjoy experimenting with the strange and unrelated materials I run into, fusing them together. The response forms an interesting resonance and opposing elements start to form an alliance. Such symbioses may irritate, provoke or be, simply beautiful.

My art is a fervent play with concealed meaning and a language other than words. I feel like a player between the zones of the seen and the unseen. New and old techniques, technologies and the endless variety of materials thrills me. It is again the contrast, the use and handling of different textures and substances which draw me into a world where loose molecules are floating around, waiting to be touched, connected and forged into something else. Creation transfers me into a wild and vast undiscovered terrain. This is exactly where I want to be.
